International Students Joyfully Serve on Summer Staff

Lake Junaluska has been welcoming international students to work on staff for the summer season for over 20 years. "The energy the international staff bring to the Lake Junaluska staff and community through their personalities, smiles and experiences is contagious," said Mike Huber, general manager. "Their work ethic and willingness to work across all departments have made a positive impact on the guest experience and our ability to achieve our mission." Several students share their experiences working at the lake:

From Turkey, Uygar, who is studying electrical and electronics engineering, has been working as a server in the dining rooms at The Terrace Hotel, Lambuth Inn and York Dining Commons, and at banquets and special events. "I wanted to work here because I liked the lake environment," he said. "One of the things I enjoy about working here is talking to the guests and staff and learning about them."

From Thailand, Bew, who is studying education to become a teacher, has been working at Lake Junaluska in housekeeping. "My favorite memory is our orientation day when I met and learned more about the students in my and other departments, and we did activities together," said Bew. "I am planning to visit Philadelphia and New York before leaving the U.S."

From Mongolia, Anima, who is studying travel and tourism management in hospitality, has been working with food services as a dishwasher and server. "I saw pictures of the lake and its surroundings. It was so splendid that I wanted to come," she said. "All the staff is super friendly to work with."

Also from Mongolia, Maya, who is studying political science, has enjoyed working in food services and making memories with new friends from all over the world. "Working in food service is so fun. Fourth of July, bonfires and bowling nights are all of my favorite memories," she said. "My top favorite is cultural exchange. I'm learning a lot about Colombia and the Dominican Republic; they also teach me Spanish."

Lake Junaluska will continue the tradition of hiring international students, and deeply valuing the diversity they bring to the staff and community. "They have been a blessing to each department in which they've served," said Cory Nuckolls, director of guest services. "I am so thankful for our community, groups and staff for so graciously welcoming them into our Lake Junaluska family."

Two students have spent the season working at Junaluska Gifts & Grounds.

International students enjoy lake activities such as kayaking and paddleboarding.

Maya and Uygar prepared a celebration dinner during Associates Celebration Weekend.
